Master of Laws (LL.M.) Program

We are now accepting applications for the LL.M. class of 2013–14. The application deadline will be April 1, 2013. We will begin making admissions decisions in January 2013, so we strongly encourage you to submit your application well before the stated deadline.

Eligibility requirements

There is one fixed eligibility requirement: applicants must have either (a) graduated from a U.S. law school that is approved by the American Bar Association, (b) obtained a full degree in law from a non-U.S. university or (c) be admitted to practice law in a country other than the U.S. Apart from this, we seek applicants from a variety of backgrounds and with profession. We also welcome applications from experienced U.S. lawyers who may uniquely benefit from advanced work here.

English Language Skills

Boston College Law School course work and related academic activities require written and spoken fluency in English. Students must be able to express themselves in both spoken and written English and must read the language with ease. Consequently, you must submit evidence of your English language ability unless either (a) English is your native language, or (b) English was the language of instruction for your entire legal education. We accept the following tests as evidence of your English ability:

- Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). We require a minimum score of at least 100 using the Internet-based test (IBT); or
- International English Language Testing System (IELTS). We require an Overall Band Score of at least 7.5.

Both examinations are administered worldwide.

Application Components

The complete application will include:

- Application form
- Resume or c. v.
- Statement of Purpose
- Two signed letters of recommendation
- Official transcripts with a certified English translation from all of your colleges, universities and graduate and professional schools
- TOEFL or IELTS results
- $75 Application Fee

Which application to use

There are two possible ways to the LL. M. program: on paper, or electronically through the LSAC web site. We encourage you to submit the paper version of the application, as long as (a) you plan to submit original paper recommendations and transcripts directly to us, and (b) you are asking the appropriate testing service to send your TOEFL or IELTS score report (if required) directly to us. Further information on these conditions appears below.

If either of these conditions does not apply to you, please submit your application electronically through the LSAC web site. Please note that the e-app will become available in early October. If you use the e-app, you must also use the LSAC LL. M. Credential Assembly Service, including the International Transcript Authentication and Evaluation Feature. This enables you to provide all of your application documents to the LSAC, which will in turn forward the relevant documents to each school to which you apply. The LSAC charges applicants $200 for this service, plus $21 for each school to which you wish to send an application. These charges are in addition to Boston College Law School's $75 application fee.

Note: if you are applying electronically, you must pay the $75 application fee by credit card (Visa, Mastercard, Discover). If you are applying on paper, you may pay the application fee by a check, travelers checks, or a postal money order. If none of these forms of payment is available to you, please contact the LL. M. Office.

For further information, see the relevant application instructions.

Financial matters

The estimated cost of study for a single student during the 2012–13 academic year is $61,670. This figure consists of tuition and fees of $43,270 and estimated living expenses of $18,400. It does not include the expenses of travel between the student's home country and the Boston area. The comparable figures for the 2013–14 academic year are likely to be higher.

Applicants requiring financial assistance should investigate funding sources in their home countries well in advance. Examples of such sources include employers, government agencies and foundations. A partial list of organizations that offer scholarship funding for U.S. graduate study follows:

- American Association of University Women
- American-Scandinavian Foundation
- Australian Federation of University Women Fellowship Fund
- DAAD Scholarships for German citizens
- Fulbright Scholarships
- Golden Key International Honour Society

- Ford Foundation
- International Federation of University Women
- Kosciuszko Foundation Scholarships for Polish citizens
- Mackenzie King Scholarships for Canadians
- Margaret McNamara Memorial Fund
- Organization of American States
- P. E. O. International Peace Scholarships for Women
- Rotary Ambassadorial Scholarships
- World Bank Scholarships Program.

The United States embassy or consulate in your home country may have additional information on Fulbright Scholarships and other fellowship opportunities. Finally, loan funding may be available from organizations such as Sallie Mae, or Citibank. If you are not a United States citizen or permanent resident, however, these lenders generally require a United States citizen or permanent resident to guarantee the loan.

In addition, Boston College Law School has a limited amount of scholarship funding available to LL.M. students. You may submit your completed financial aid application either with your application for admission, or after you receive an offer of admission. We review your application for admission without regard to your financial situation, so submitting a scholarship application will have no effect on whether or not we offer you admission to the LL.M. program. Scholarship awards are made primarily on the basis of financial need.

International Student Week in Belgrade - ISWiB 2013 (14-21.07, Serbia)

We are more than happy to announce that the next ISWiB will take place from 14th to 21st July 2013. This year, the International Student Week in Belgrade is going to be held for the 7th time.

The International Student Week in Belgrade (ISWiB) is a one-week student festival which has been traditionally held every year since 2006 in the city of Belgrade, Serbia. The Festival is open for students from all universities in Europe. Every year, ISWiB gathers over 200 young people, including participants, moderators and volunteers.

The idea of the festival is binding young people through work in several different workshops created so that every workshop covers a significant field of our society which we live in. Through workshops, close communication and cooperation, interactive lectures and various open activities, students will be able to gain new knowledge and exchange ideas. Students will also have an opportunity to establish professional contacts with eminent professors and professionals from different sectors and develop and create new projects by themselves. The Festival has been traditionally organized by association World Youth Wave.

Theme

This year's International Student Week in Belgrade will be directed towards the creation of an international youth network through which the participants will be able to continue to cooperate. The educational program will aim to raise the level of their knowledge in various fields, and through formal and informal meetings the participants will be able to connect with other young people who are also engaged in that field. Each workshop will have a concrete product of their work during the festival, either in the form of a project, recorded film, exhibition, etc. We want this year to bring together young people with ideas and help them hatch a concrete product; we will work together in order to hatch the network!

Young people are not just the future of the world nor does the world belong to them as it was often told. They are the present holders of the society as well as other groups, which is why it is important to work together, and for that you need a platform that will be hatched from this year's ISWiB!

Eligibility

All European students and those from the other continents but studying in Europe at the moment can apply for ISWiB. All fields of study are welcome, there are no special requirements. Recently graduated students are also welcome.

Participation fee

The fee for foreign students is 100 Euros and it includes accommodation, food and workshop expenses. For domestic students, the fee is 40 Euros and it includes food and workshops expenses. Students studying in Serbia have no accommodation provided during the festival.

Travel costs are not covered with the participation fee and ISWiB will not make any reimbursement of the costs.

The official language of ISWiB is English.

Accommodation

ISWiB participants will be accommodated in Petar Drapšin Student Dormitory.

The 2nd GESIS Summer School in Survey Methodology will take place at GESIS Cologne from August 08 to 30, 2013.

Surveys are the main method of systematic data collection in the Social Sciences. Surveys provide empirical data for researchers to analyse, and are an important source of information for business, charities and policy makers. There are numerous types of surveys suited for different purposes. Given the variety and complexity of survey research, designing and conducting a survey that effectively and efficiently serves a specific purpose requires specialised expertise and skill (as well as a good team).

Objectives

The GESIS Summer School offers high quality training in state of the art techniques and methods of survey research. It aims to equip participants with essential skills in the design, planning, execution, documentation and quality assurance of surveys of households, individuals or organisations. This Summer School is unique in Europe with its focus on Survey Methodology and data collection.

The GESIS Summer School does not only give a broad overview of survey methods, but provides an opportunity to deeply engage with the different tasks of survey design and implementation (such as questionnaire design, sampling, nonresponse and fieldwork monitoring), different survey modes (such as personal interviews and web surveys), research designs involving surveys (such as mixed methods, factorial surveys, longitudinal surveys and cross-national surveys) as well as data management. The courses offer engaging instruction in state-of-the-art knowledge and application oriented skills, provided by an international team of survey specialists.

Our instructors come from a diverse set of countries and fields, and we welcome applicants from all countries and fields.

Target audience

The Summer School is designed for advanced graduate and PhD students as well as post-docs and other researchers interested in improving their knowledge and skills in survey methodology from all relevant fields, such as Political Science, Sociology, Economics, Education Science, Communication Science, Epidemiology, Demography etc. Professionals from outside academic research who are

We are very thankful for the cooperation with the Center for Doctoral Studies in Social and Behavioral Sciences (CDSS) of the University of Mannheim. We also gratefully acknowledge the contributions made by our sponsors to a social and cultural program. It is greatly important to us that participants can meet outside the seminar rooms to have a good time and find new research collaborators and, indeed, friends. We aim to provide participants with a supportive social environment, a stimulating and academically rigorous program, and an exciting time in Cologne.

Accommodation

working with surveys are welcome to apply. It is the right place to go for PhD students and researchers planning to run their own survey, but also for those who analyse secondary data, want to know more about how the data came about, how to assess their quality, and those who wish to engage in methodological research.

Summer School participants need to take care of their accommodation themselves – requirements are too diverse for us to make central bookings.

We support you by negotiating special rates in various price categories and providing the list of options below.

Cologne tends to be very well booked all over the year. During trade fairs (e.g. the „gamescom“, 21.-25.08.2013), higher rates will be charged at almost all hotels.

Deadline: June 1st, 2013
